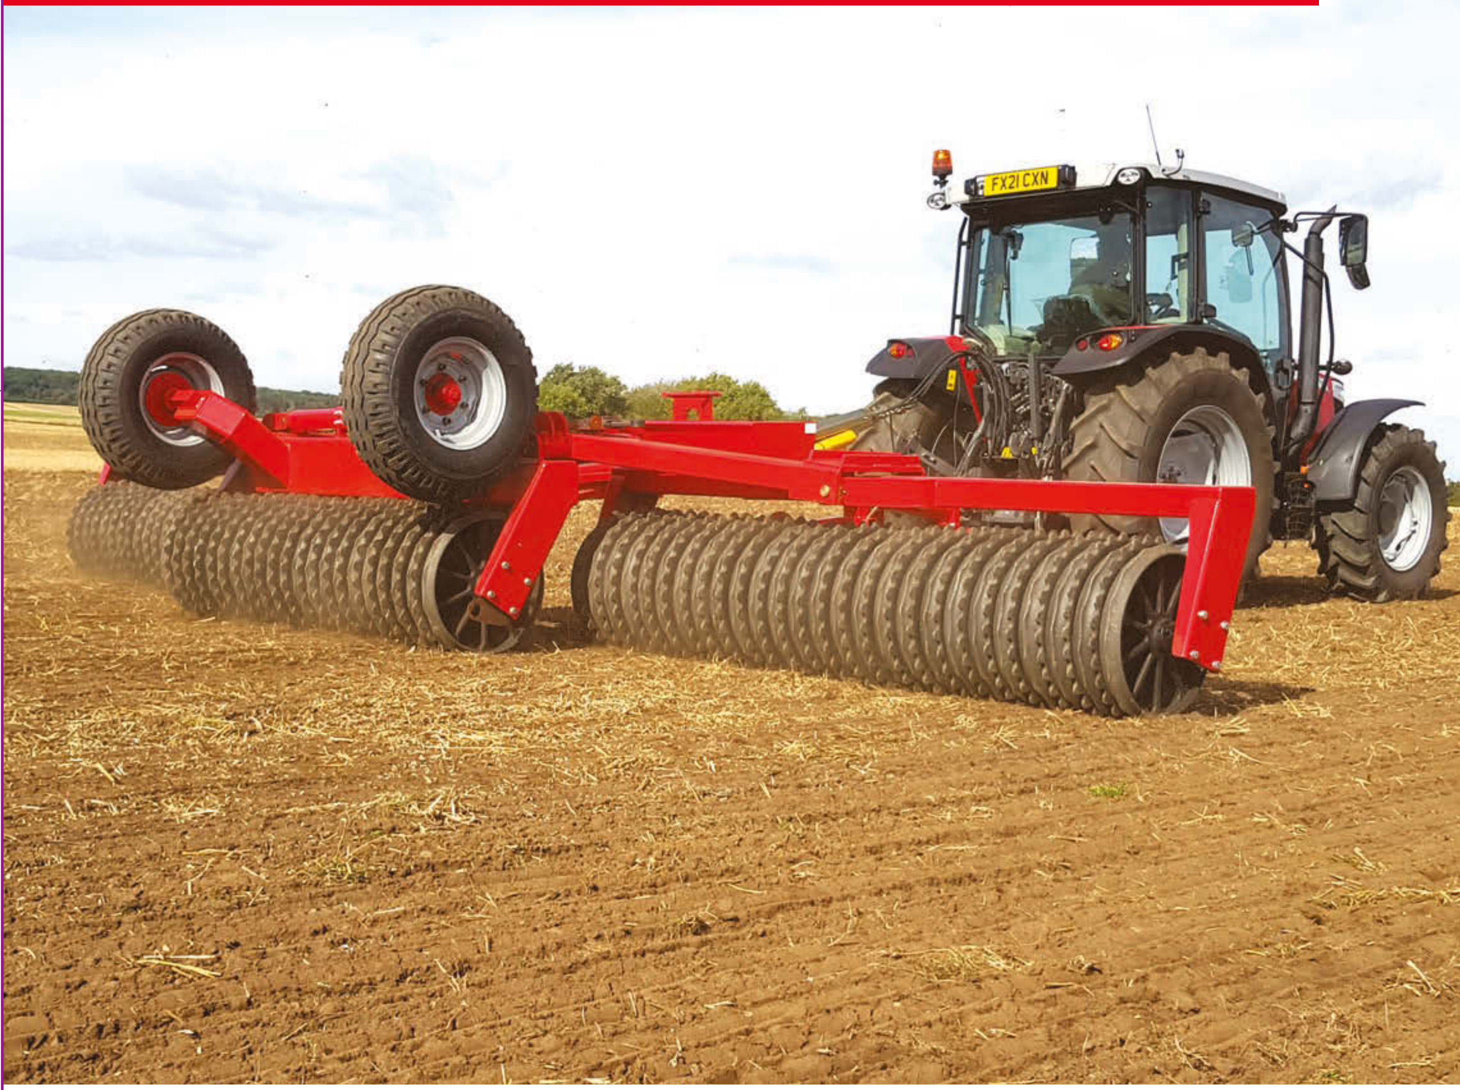
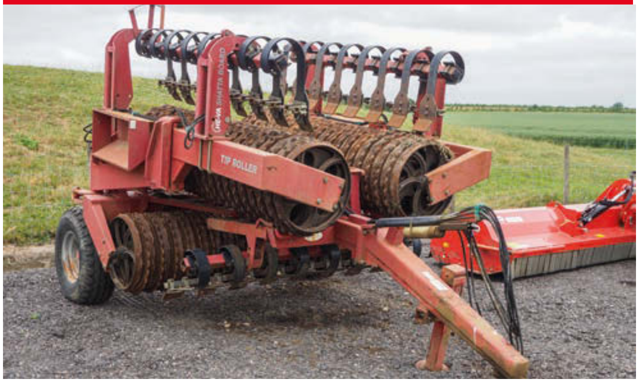
ESTABLISHED SYSTEM IS RIGHT ON TREND



Originally branded as OPICO Vari-Flex rolls, the HE-VA TIP Roller Cambridge roll range has evolved in detail since its original introduction in the 90's. It was the addition of a 'Shattaboard' option in 1997, however, that saw the TIP Roller family emerge as far more than 'just' a folding Cambridge roll, continued popularity of these rollers seeing the range extended to include a new five-gang 12.30m version that made its UK debut at Cereals 2017.

OPICO HE-VA

6.30M XHD TIP ROLLER CAMBRIDGE AND BREAKER RING + SHATTABOARD



Year: 2007

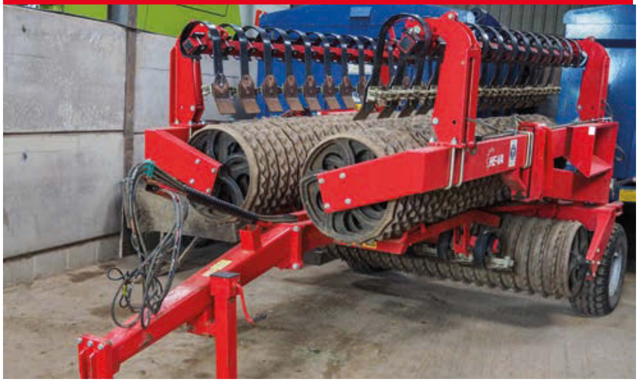
Condition: Ready for work

Comment: Frame like current XHD & HD plus models. Faded paint but sound condition. Good 620mm rings with stronger curved spoke.

Price point: £7,500

OPICO HE-VA

8.20M XHD TIP ROLLER CAMBRIDGE AND BREAKER RING + SHATTABOARD



Year: 2014

Condition: Ready for work, low wear

Comment: Popular model commands used premium so check you do not pay over the odds. 620mm rings with stronger curved spoke. Benefits from all frame upgrades to suit tractor of 200 to 250hp.

Price point: £16,500

To clear up some possible early confusion, the OPICO branded Vari-Flex roller and, from 2004, HE-VA TIP Roller models are one and the same. OPICO shrank its decal size in favour of HE-VA in recognition of the growing reputation and popularity of the Danish manufacturer's products both in the UK and EU.

The TIP Roller name relates to how these rolls fold, the HE-VA developed system seeing the two outer gangs tip forward to fold longitudinally, as opposed to vertically, and so lower the unit's centre of gravity for stability in transport. The previous Vari-Flex name relates to another HE-VA feature that governs how the rolls follow the ground in work. The two outer gangs pivot at their centre, with the folding hinge section also allowing a degree of vertical movement in the outer gangs, again to accommodate ground contours. In effect, the rolls pivot at the drawbar, at the wing section hinge points and in the centre of each wing section to give five pivot points in all.

To ensure vertical pressure on the outer wings is maintained, movement is controlled using the HE-VA Special Active Transfer or SAT system. In outline, both outer section hinges are linked via a 1,700kg rated spring or, on rolls of 9.50m and above, a pair of these springs to help transfer frame and drawbar weight more evenly across the width of the roller. The claim is more even consolidation across the working width of the roll.

The three section TIP Roller range is offered in 4.50m, 5.40m, 6.30m, 7.30m, 8.20m, 9.50m and 10.20m working widths for HD and HDplus models, the heavier XHD variant with larger rings starting at 6.30m. To provide added support to the wider wing sections, 8.20m and wider models have a central support bearing fitted.

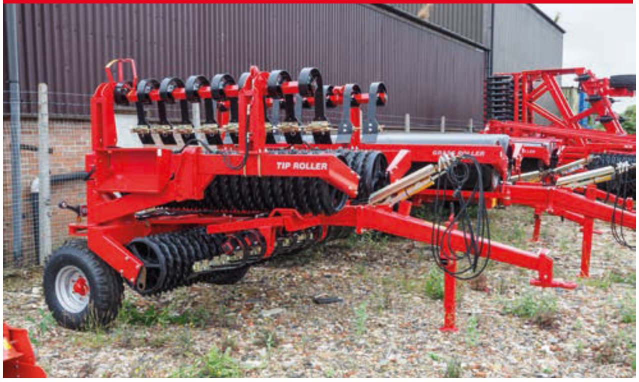
OPICO HE-VA

6.3M HD TIP ROLLER CAMBRIDGE AND BREAKER RING + SHATTABOARD



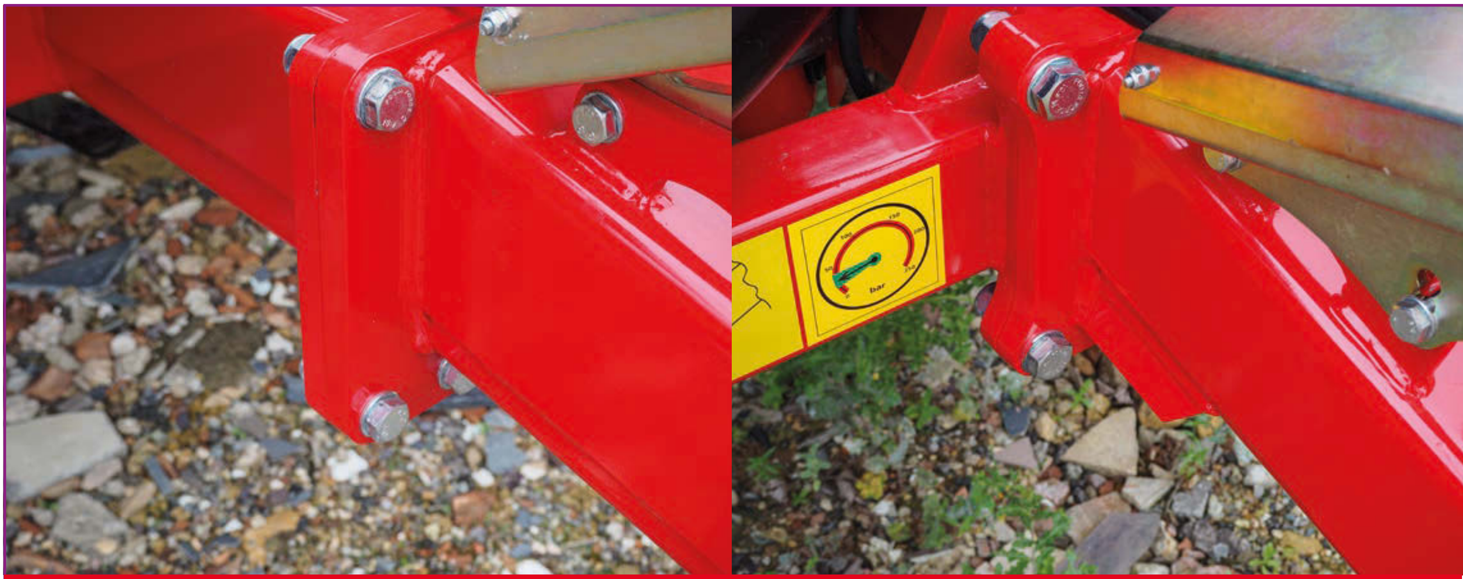
Year: 2016

Condition: New

Comment: HD models have smaller 510mm rings popular on medium soils. Frame design very similar to older XHD Tip Roller models. Benefits from detail strengthening made from 2014

Price point: £14,000

COMING UP NEXT MONTH: FOUR ROTOR RAKES



Both early XHD and current HDplus variants have the same 'heavy-duty' frame design, a key identifier being the square drawbar to main frame mount. The XHD TIP Roll models from 1997 have an 'extra heavy-duty' frame, the waisted design as pictured on the right making this type easy to identify on a used buy.

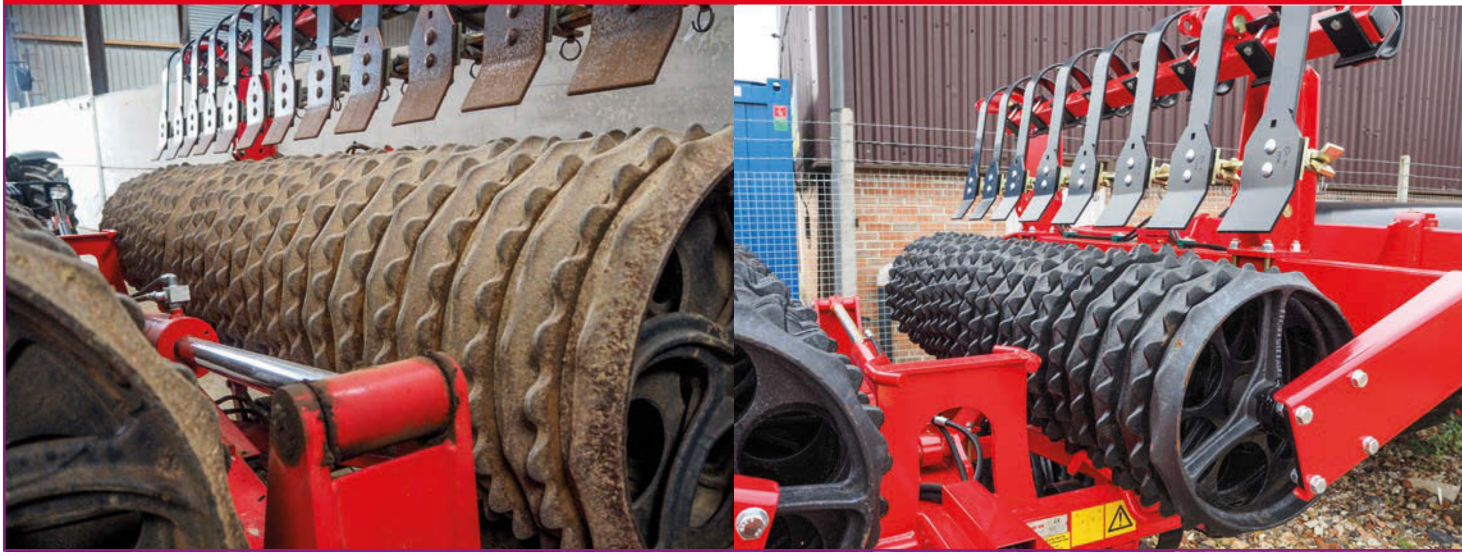
<< The five-section 12.30m TIP Roller shown at Cereals 2017, and a larger 15.30m version, are related to these smaller model and both allow the HE-VA Shattaboard system to be fitted, but have a new frame design.

Offered as an option, the addition of a Shattaboard greatly enhances a TIP Roller's versatility. Since its introduction in 1997, the Shattaboard has become a default fit for most new TIP Rollers sold in the UK, the system being a simple 'bolt-on' retrofit to rolls without. This will include earlier rolls to include OPICO Vari-Flex units but with the caveat that a degree of care is needed regarding soil types and available tractor power. HE-VA has upped the strength of the TIP Roller frame over the years to cope with more powerful tractors.

The Shattaboard itself comprises a single gang of heavy duty springs with 150mm wide replaceable paddle tips. The angle of the Shattaboard can be adjusted, with each paddle linking to its neighbour with a locking bar. The latter can be removed singly or as a set but in practice most will leave them in place. Locking the springs together improves the levelling action of the Shattaboard and harnesses the strength of neighbouring springs in tough conditions.

The paddles can be replaced with slicing plate knives that can be used to provide added cultivation or operated with a HE-VA Multi-Seeder; the locking bars between the tines should be removed for 'drilling'. Each slicer plate is fitted with two vertical blades. A further alternative is to replace the Shattaboard with a Straw Harrow fitted with 16mm spring tines.

Unless you can compare rings between used (left) and new (right) it is difficult to judge just how much wear has taken place and to work out how long a partially worn ring set will last. The key is to ensure the rings have a pronounced profile.



It is a false economy to work with a really worn roller hitch as it will also increase wear on the tractor's pick-up.

The original Shattaboard brackets (left) have an M16 clamp, this increasing to M18 from around 2014.

RING SIZE AND TYPES

HE-VA Tip Roller models are offered in three broad variants, HD, HDplus and XHD. The HD utilises 500mm Cambridge only or 510mm Cambridge and breaker rings. The market has, however, gradually moved away from the HD rolls in favour of the larger HDplus models. These utilise 550mm Cambridge and 560mm combined Cambridge and breaker rings. XHD rollers have either larger 600mm Cambridge roll rings or 620mm ring sets with breaker ring. All types run upon a 60mm axle shaft.

On light soils, the larger ring sizes of XHD rollers are less prone to bulldozing due to the reduced rolling resistance of the larger ring diameter. Despite a lighter overall weight, the smaller HD or HDplus rings contact area is more concentrated, making these units possibly a good buy on medium soils; the frame strength and overall weight of the XHD rolls is typically a reason why these versions are selected for heavy soils.

To make comparing sizes and weights easier, see the model specification tables.

FRAME STRENGTH

The basic frame design has altered little since the first Vari-Flex /TIP Roller models were introduced, but there have been detailed changes to the thickness of the box section with subtle tweaks to the various brackets and welds to increase overall strength. This is due to ever increasing tractor power as opposed to the HE-VA frames having any inherent weaknesses. It is for this reason that used buyers need to consider the work the roller is to do before making a buying choice, the more so if the frame is pre-1997 when the Shattaboard option was first introduced.

A further point is that HD frames are of a lighter build than HDplus /XHD models. When comparing used rollers, early models will look to have the same frame design as current rollers. The exception is that newer models have the tow hitch bracket bolted to the drawbar. XHD frames are generally beefed up and had a further boost in build strength from 1997. Fastener sizes changed and the Shattaboard U bolt clamp size was increased from 2014.

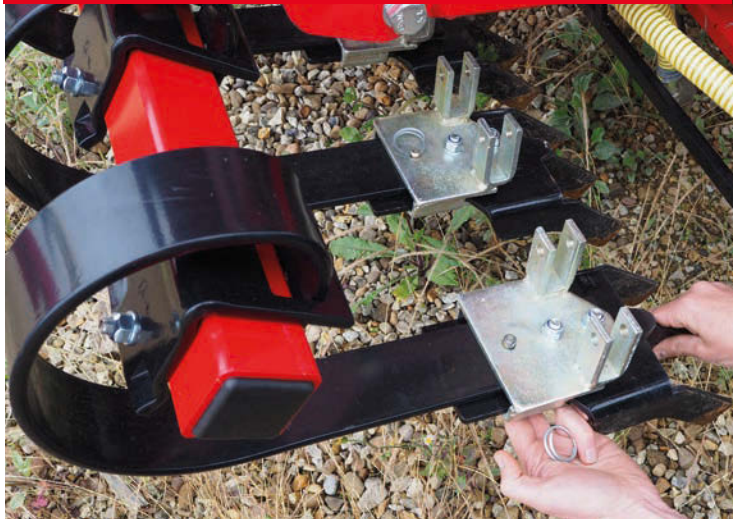
Although the pictured locking bars were listed as a Shattaboard option, most will have them fitted, hydraulically interlinking the springs across each section helping to improve levelling ahead of the rolls. The angle of the Shattaboard can be adjusted to suit different soils and conditions.

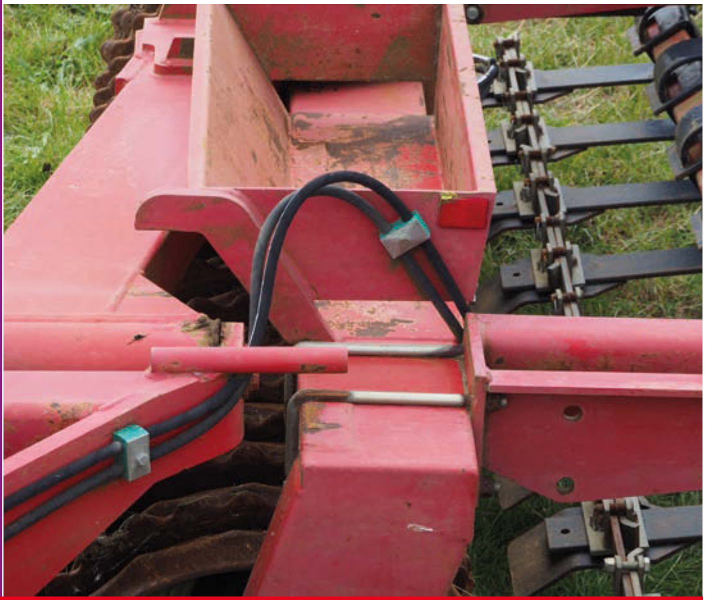
The Shattaboard paddles can be swapped to a choice of flat paddle or slicer plate depending on requirements. A tool free mount option is popular on units fitted with an OPICO Varioseeder. Note the omission of locking bars to allow the individual spring movement for seeding work.



<< Are these changes of relevance when considering a used buy? A lot will depend upon workload, soil type and tractor power. A 6.30m XHD with Shattaboard is one of the more likely used finds, variants from around 1997 and onward typically being well suited to a tractor of between 150hp to 180hp. Push up power and working speeds to 200hp and over 10kph and you are better looking to a wider alternative, the 8.20m XHD perhaps making a better buy. These rolls work best at speeds of up to 10kph, a slower 8kph reducing wear and improving effectiveness.

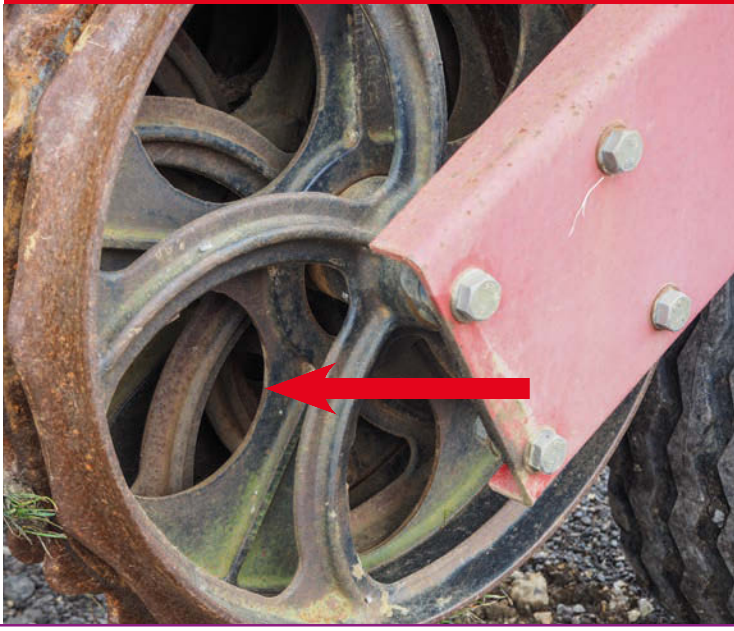
SIMPLE TOOL, EASY SET UP?

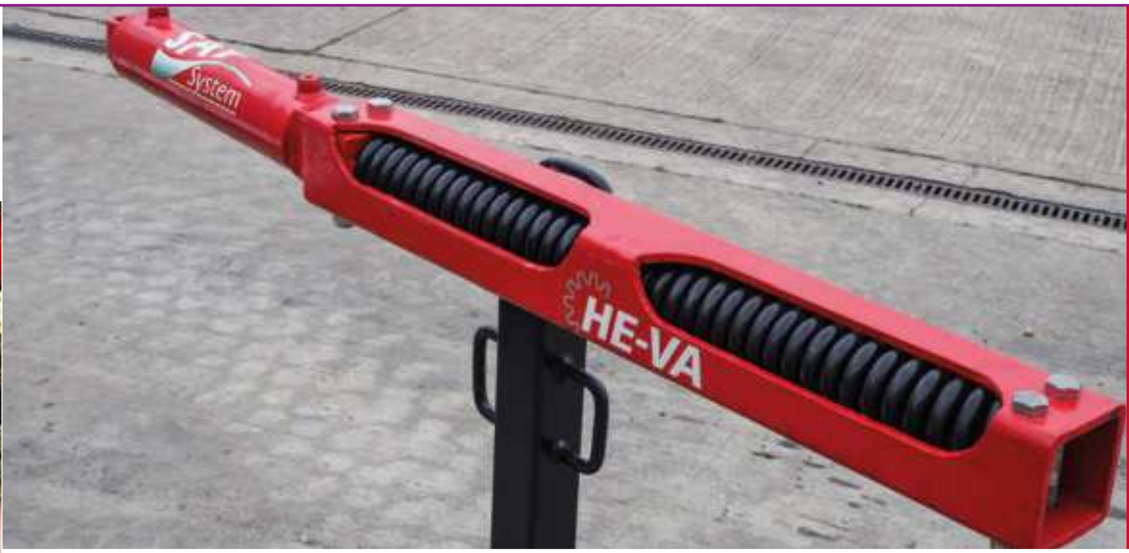
Fitting a Shattaboard to a TIP Roller is simple, requiring just a third service to power the rams that alter the angle of work. Users suggest, however, that getting the Shattaboard working at its best takes a bit of time and that the setting will need checking and altering to suit changing conditions and soils. A small change in the angle at which the paddles work ahead of the rolls can have a big impact upon the quality of finish and consolidation. So too can



The section hinge allows for vertical movement with stops to prevent the sections dropping when the unit is raised. Note stone trays, the latter having a sloped profile to allow it to be emptied by tilting the rolls back on the headland.

In the UK, a Cambridge roll plus breaker rings is popular. The breaker ring (arrowed) is designed to float freely between the Cambridge rings so it can help prevent soil build up in damp conditions.





Cutaway showing the 1,700kg spring at the heart of the Special Active Transfer, SAT system. In work, the folding rams act upon the spring creating a downward force on the outer wing sections, with the claim that the spring's force will help ensure even consolidation across the width of the roll over undulating terrain.

working too fast. HE-VA fit a simple indicator to show the angle of the Shattaboard. The 7.3m and above models have two as opposed to just one ram per Shattaboard section.

Where paddles are replaced with slicing plate knives, be aware that these are wear items and that they can need renewal more frequently than you might think. Shattaboard paddle wear is typically low, with users suggesting they will typically outlast a set of rings if not longer.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

Start with the drawbar, most UK models having a pick-up hitch ring fitted. The ring mount on models made up until around 2010 is integral with the drawbar, a bolt-on design subsequently being fitted. This is for production reasons. Similarly, the hydraulic hose coupling stowage system was changed at the same time but it does the same job.

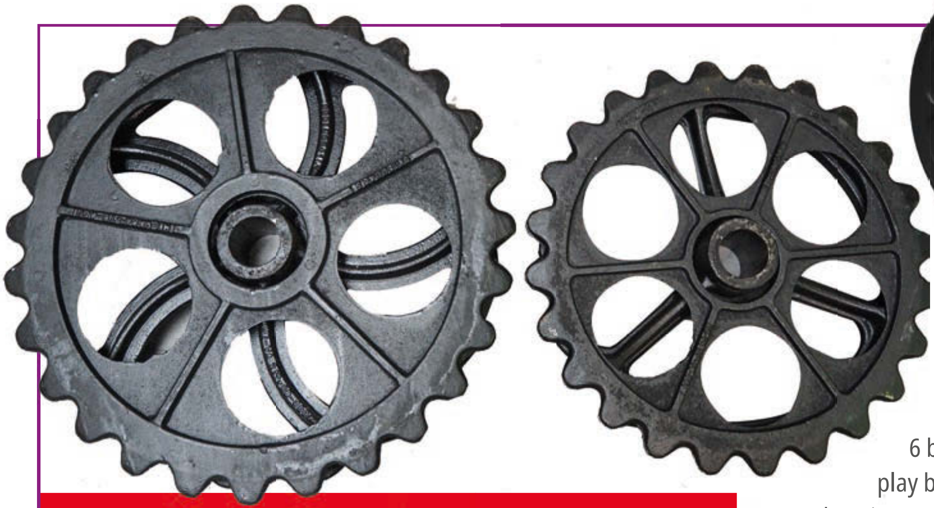
Rolls manufactured from 2018 will have the new style "NG" ring design replacing the previous curved spoke design"



With a breaker ring, XHD rolls are 620mm, with a smaller 510mm ring size on the equivalent HD variant (right). Cambridge rings on their own are 600mm and 510mm respectively. Note how the breaker ring fits over the shoulder of the Cambridge roll, plain Cambridge rolls having a different design to allow them to fit close together.

The wing sections of TIP Roller models of 8.20m and up have a central bearing support. The bearing itself is sealed and will typically last the life of a set of rolls, but all parts to replace worn items, to include a bearing holder and frame support, are available.

Wear between the rings can be taken up using a choice of 1mm or 5mm shims or Easy Fit shims of 15mm, 20mm or 25mm. These bolt in place.

Moving back to the frame to drawbar mount, the flange on 2013 HDplus/XHD models is waisted and secured with M20 as opposed to M16 fasteners. Not a problem area but ensure all 6 bolts on a used buy are tight and there is no sign of play between the flange and frame.

The wing section hinge bushes are renewable, catching wear early makes correcting any play a relatively simple and economical job. Excess play may need more work so check for movement when unfolding/folding the outer gang sets. As an aside, gently moving forward as the unit is opened and closed will help prevent damaging the outer rings, particularly on hard ground.

The wing section centre pivot is greaseable but it is not bushed, the factory finishing the pivot holes to a tight tolerance. Wear here is typically not a problem but still check. If you can detect play it will need to be repaired.

A single ram raises the roller onto the transport wheels, exposing the chromed section when the unit is folded for storage. Check its finish, a coating of grease helping to protect it on rollers stored in the open. The section fold rams are similarly exposed in the fold position. Look for weeping seals and any deterioration of the related hydraulic hose.

Moving to the tyres, look for damage and wear, particularly on rolls stored folded for an extended period as the bulk of the rolls weight will be on the tyres. If these have deflated, the sidewalls will suffer. Hydraulic and air brake options are available but these will be a rare find on units up to 8.20m.

Frame damage is unusual but still look for repairs, older models built before 1997 but subsequently retrofitted with a Shattaboard possibly being more prone to harm than later units. User abuse is difficult with these units but too aggressive a setting for the Shattaboard, plus putting a big tractor on a narrow unit and pulling it too fast, will clearly put stress on the frame. So check properly.

The paint finish on HE-VA rolls typically hangs on well but older models pre a paint process change in 2014 will fade to matt tinged salmon pink if left outside. An original gloss red suggests under cover storage. Will good paint add value to a used buy? It is perhaps better to focus on overall wear and tear than on how the unit looks, but glossy paint tends to suggest good care by the previous owner.

Next move onto the rings. Gaps opening between the rings is part of normal wear, OPICO supplying shims of varying thickness to accommodate typical play across the gang sets. It is important to keep the rings tightly packed along the gang as this will help reduce wear and reduce ring clatter in work.

The ring profiles are best compared with new to get an idea of wear but, where there is nothing to compare a worn ring with, check the undulating ribbed profile on the Cambridge ring is pronounced. Breaker rings are free floating between the main rings but the tips do wear and will possibly allow the rings to stall if too worn.

If the rings are noticeably worn, the unit's value is in the frame. As a very rough guide, a new set of rings, to include bearings and axle, will cost around £3,000/m to replace. A new 6.3m TIP Roller XHD, without Shattaboard, has a retail price of around £2,813/m. A new 6.30m Shattaboard retails for £6,499, upping the total new price to around £3,896/m. You can use these outline figures to work out how much a used TIP Roll is worth.

SUMMARY

TIP Roller owners tend to hang onto these units, typically replacing them when they want a wider unit. This means the most common used finds will be rolls of under 8.20m, with a 6.30m set being among the more likely used finds. Older Vari-Flex and TIP Roll sets without a Shattaboard can make a sound used buy if well priced, retrofitting a new Shattaboard making economic sense if the used buying price is right.

So how much should you pay. Tough one this as prices seem to vary according to the time of year and prevailing regional demand. Further, transport costs can make securing a cheap buy some distance away less of a bargain once it turns up in the yard. As a very rough guide, entry level buys for a workable TIP Roller without a Shattaboard in place will start at around £950/m or nearer £1,200/m with one fitted. For a 6.30m TIP Roll that equates to used values of £5,985 and £7,560 respectively. In theory this would increase to £7,885 and £9,960 for the next most likely used find, an 8.20m, but in practice these larger units are in strong demand so you will be lucky to pay these prices; entry level prices for these rolls, with sound rings, will be more likely to hover around £10,500 with a Shattaboard.

The outer wing section hinge pivots are fitted with Teflon coated bushes, the pin itself typically only needing to be replaced if bush wear becomes excessive.

Look for wear when unfolding and re-folding the roller.

CLAYDON

TAKING DIRECT STRIP SEEDING TO THE NEXT LEVEL

European market leader in direct strip seeding technology with its Opti-Till® system, Claydon will demonstrate the latest Evolution mounted drill and Straw Harrow at Cereals 2023. It will also exhibit a 4.8m Evolution drill, 4.8m TerraBlade inter-row hoe and 6m TerraStar light rotary cultivator at the event, which will take place at Newark on 13-14 June.

Increasingly relevant in the face of rapidly rising input costs, the Opti-Till® System is based around Claydon trailed and mounted drills from 3m to 8m wide, all of which incorporate the company's unique leading tine technology which provides exceptional ability and versatility. The Claydon range also includes 3m, 7.5m, 9m, 12.5m and 15m Straw Harrows, the 6m TerraStar® light rotary cultivator and TerraBlade inter-row hoes from 3m to 8m wide.

CLAYDON EVOLUTION DRILLS

Building on Claydon's extensive experience of direct strip seeding technology, the Evolution mounted drill takes direct strip seeding to the next level. Combining enhanced operational functionality with the tried and tested features which have made Opti-Till® the crop establishment system of choice for growers wanting to reduce costs, increase productivity, and improve soil health, Evolution drills are designed for direct strip seeding, but can be used after conventional tillage, such as ploughing, following consolidation.

A key benefit of the tried and tested two-tine technology which is at the heart of every Claydon drill is its ability to cope with extremes of weather that are becoming increasingly frequent. It delivers exceptional versatility in all climatic conditions, soil types and crops, yet moves soil only in the growing zone. The front tine removes compaction, aerates the soil, and creates drainage in the rooting zone, whilst the seeding tine deposits seeds in the surface tilth. Zonal cultivation means that the previous rooting and soil structure is not destroyed, allowing worms to thrive and soil biota levels to improve.

With working widths of 3m, 4m, 4.5m, 4.8m, 5m and 6m, Evolution models incorporate 9, 13, 15 or 19 tines and most feature a 1,910 litre hopper, 160 litres more than previous Claydon Hybrid mounted models. Fertiliser placement models, available with working widths of 3m and 4m, have a 2,700 litre tank, an increase of 600 litres, which is split 50:50 between seed and fertiliser. The larger hoppers reduce downtime and increase output, while second and third hopper options for applying multiple types, varieties and sizes of seed are available to enhance versatility.

All models feature as standard a hydraulic fan, Artemis metering control, tramlining facility, front tine/180mm A-share configuration, double rear toolbar and road lights. Typical daily outputs range from 20ha for the 3m Evolution which requires at least 150hp to 40ha for the 6m version which needs a minimum of 300hp.

Options include GPS variable seed rate capability, pre-emergence marker arms, front disc toolbar, stone protection, micro fertiliser applicator, low-disturbance twin tine kit, slug pelleter, blockage sensors and a light and vision kit.

TWO NEW SIZES FOR MODERN AGRICULTURAL TRAILERS

The Mitas Agriterra range of radial tyres for modern agricultural trailers now includes two new sizes – the 620/40R22.5 and 620/75R26 - with the Agriterra 02 tread pattern. These are primarily designed for special agricultural machines and not exclusively for trailers. The impetus for both these new tyres is the demand from the original equipment market.

The 620/40R22.5 size is designed for smaller, towed agricultural machinery such as balers, green fodder harvesters, spreaders, and similar equipment. This new tyre size is intended primarily for the European market. The second new size, the 620/75R26, is the result of demand from the North American market and is intended for self-propelled windrowers for two-phase harvesting of various types of crops and grass.

The key benefits of Agriterra tyres include high load capacity and a maximum speed of up to 65 km/h, on the one hand reducing the number of trips needed to transport cargo and on the other enabling fast on-road transfer while reducing fuel consumption by up to 8% due to low rolling resistance. The tyres are suitable for both on-road and off-road operations. Thanks to the open shoulder tread area, the tyres have excellent self-cleaning ability, resulting in 17% decrease in muddying of the road. These characteristics significantly improve the productivity of agricultural vehicles, with consequent positive impacts on farmers' profits through time and money savings.

Originally launched in 2015, the Agriterra 02 tyre range now includes 14 sizes for rims of 22.5 to 30.5 inches, and it is constantly developing. Pavel Kott, Product Manager for Mitas agricultural tyres at Trelleborg Wheel Systems added: "Efforts to maximise soil protection and farmers' desire for higher load capacities to improve efficiency have been some of the strongest trends in recent years. Our Agriterra 02 tyre range combines these two characteristics, making it very popular among customers all over the world. To support farmers and facilitate their everyday work, we continue to develop new sizes and versions of these tyres."

SIMPLE PRE-SEASON PREPARATIONS FOR SUCCESSFUL SILAGE HARVEST

This year's silage season is fast approaching, so farmers and contractors are being reminded to check their machinery is set up correctly now, to ensure its longevity and maximise silage quality, before the pre-silage rush.

Craig Bryson, territory sales manager at Krone UK, shares his top pre-season checks for mowers, tedders and rakes.

"Although it can be tempting to cut grass short to maximise harvest volume, when setting up your mower for the first cut of the season, it's important to avoid cutting too low, as an increased cutting height will encourage optimal regrowth and recovery," he explained.

"To avoid the mower smearing the soil, make sure the mower is set up as flat as possible, with the lowest pressure on the bed, to allow it to follow the contours of the ground. This ensures that the tedder and rake achieve a clean pick up, ultimately reducing soil contamination.

"When entering a field, drive forwards for about 20 feet, stop, and clear the swath to ensure you're achieving the desired cutting height, along with a smooth and even cut, before continuing," he said.

Mr Bryson added that it is important to check the mower discs for signs of wear and tear early, so that repairs can be made in good time.

"If there's any excess wear on the mower you feel could be cause for concern, don't be afraid to pick up the phone to your local dealer. Krone mowers have replaceable wearing parts that are easy to install on-farm," he said.

"Premature or excess wear may be a sign that the mower has been set up incorrectly, so getting it sorted now can save you time and money in the long run."

The particularly dry 2022 season may mean some farmers and contractors have not used their tedder for well over a year, so regular maintenance may have slipped under the radar.

Mr Bryson encouraged farmers to conduct maintenance checks working from the front to the back of the machine, for example, checking that universal joints are intact and greased, with guards in place, and making sure there are no broken or bent tines. He also recommended checking tyre pressure ahead of the season.

"If tyre pressure is too high, as the tedder is driven over hard, rough ground, it'll be shaken excessively. But if it's too low, the machine will sit unlevel and cause the tines to scrape the ground, risking soil contamination," he explained.

"Once in the field, check the tedder height is set correctly, with a base setting of 20mm tine tip to stubble, so it moves the whole crop, however it might take a few runs to get this exactly right.

"For the tractor, checking the top link and stabilisers are in good condition will help prolong overall machine performance. For example, if the stabiliser is loose, it can cause the machine to swing. Keeping on top of this will help elongate the durability of the machine," said Mr Bryson.

"Making sure machines are serviced regularly, stored clean and pre-season checks are carried out early puts you in good stead to get parts ordered promptly at a fair price, while helping to prevent issues in the field, to maximise silage quality."

NEW HIGH TENSILE BARBED WIRE JOINER

Gripple, the market leading manufacturer of wire joiners and tensions for agricultural fencing, has released a new wire joiner specifically for use with high tensile barbed wire.

The new High Tensile joiner is 16% stronger than using a traditional wire knot, thanks to Gripple's patented corrosion resistant ceramic wedge technology, which means barbed wire joints last the lifetime of the fence.

Part of Gripple's new Barbed range, which also includes a Mild Steel joiner, the High Tensile joiner has been specifically designed to grip the unique shape of barbed wire, proving long lasting joints for installation or repair.

Manufactured from corrosion-resistant materials, the High Tensile joiner is designed to last the lifetime of the fence. In addition, with its built-in release function, it enables release and adjustment if needed.

Gripple Product Manager, Tom Wire, explains: "We have responded to demand from the market for a wire joiner which is compatible with high tensile barbed wire. The wire joiner makes fences even quicker and more straightforward to install and allows for easy maintenance and repair. This will mean major time and cost savings."

Gripple's new High Tensile joiner is compatible with standard wire thicknesses from 1.57mm to 2mm. As part of the new Gripple Barbed range, both the High Tensile and Mild Steel Barbed wire joiners offer a multitude of benefits. Compatible with barbed wire of 2.00mm to 2.50mm thicknesses, the Mild Steel Barbed wire joiner, like the High Tensile version, is easy to use, quick to install and very reliable.

Gripple has applied 30+ years of tried and tested wire joining technology to its Barbed wire joiners, which have been specifically developed to grip the unique undulating shape of barbed wire.

Gripple's Barbed range is available from local, regional and national fencing and agricultural retailers across the UK.

NATIONAL RECOGNITION

A small business based in West Sussex has received national recognition for its knowledge, professionalism and customer service at a prestigious awards ceremony.

Chichester Farm Machinery was presented with the Avant Dealer of the Year award in February following an exceptional period of sales, servicing and repairs. The award also recognised the company's aftercare, parts and product knowledge.

Managing Director Lewis Ramm, who attended the event in Norwich together with Sales Manager Steve Everton, said: "We were delighted to have even been considered for such an award, so to then be named as Dealer of the Year was a true honour and a privilege."

He said the award was the culmination of hard work and determination from the whole team. "We may only be a small company but we're a strong and effective one, with staff who are really committed to their jobs. Receiving an award like this makes it all worthwhile and we couldn't be more pleased."

Chichester Farm Machinery, based in the village of Runcton just outside Chichester, has been an Avant main dealer since 2018. The company specialises in all types of farm and garden machinery sales and maintenance.

SPALDINGS SECURES EXCLUSIVE DISTRIBUTION AGREEMENT

Spaldings, Britain's leading distributor of after-market soil-engaging components for cultivators, subsoilers and seed drills, has secured an exclusive distribution agreement for Dutch Openers tine drill coulters in the UK and Ireland.

The Lincoln-based company has previously shared distribution rights for the Canadian manufacturer's advanced products but the new exclusivity agreement will enable the two operations to work closely on product enhancements and new designs.

SEVAC TO HOST NATIONAL

Good news! The South Eastern Vintage Tractor Club will be hosting the 2024 National Vintage Tractor Road Run on 31 March 2024.

For those of you who are not familiar with the NVTRR it is a charity road run of around 300+ vintage tractors with many entrants attending not just from the local area, but from across the UK. The run takes place every year on Easter Sunday and in 2023 took place at Dumfries & Galloway, hosted by Glenluce Vintage Tractor Club at Kirkland Airfield, Stranraer.

Preparations for the 2024 run are well underway and a sub-committee co-chaired by Will Cranfield and John Parnaby, have already secured a headline sponsor in McCormick Tractors, created publicity material, printed entry forms, planning an evening meal and live band entertainment for the Saturday night and are in the process of registering the grand prize draw of Sussex hampers and other prizes.

The run will start at Plumpton College in the South Downs National Park and aims to show the rest of the vintage tractor community what Sussex and most importantly SEVAC has to offer. Our chosen charity is Patchwork Farm at Chailey Heritage Foundation. Patchwork Farm is entirely funded through donation and allows the young people of Chailey Heritage Foundation to have hands-on, multi-sensory engagement with a number of animals.

The organiser days "We hope to have as many members, friends and anyone else involved in the run as possible whether it be taking part, marshalling, or popping down for the Saturday evening meal and live band. Please visit www.nvtrr2024.co.uk for more information.

MOUNTFIELD GETS SEASON GOING

On Sunday 19 March Jon Playfoot and his August Rural Past Times, Horns Cross crew staged the 27 mile Mountfield Charity Road Run.

Based at the Mountfield village hall where an excellent bacon roll was served the 42 road runners were well prepared at 10.45am as they left for the lanes around East Sussex.

There were many makes to be seen, but Ford, Fordson and Ferguson were the predominant ones. However International, Massey Ferguson, Muir Hill, Deutz, MB Trac 1300 (my outstanding tractor here), JCB Fastrac and others were also enjoying the day including a Ford built WW2 Jeep.

Some of the tractors were in trouble early, starting with a Ford Pre Force 2000 Dexta from Northiam which only got 1,000 yards before stopping! Eventually the problem was sorted out and away it went. Bringing up the rear was co-organiser Trevor Chearman with the Ferguson TE-F and trailer who collected the road run signs as they went along the route.

The road runners travelled through Netherfield, along Crackle Street, Twelve Oakes onto Brightling, through the park where the famous horse trials once took place then on up to Perch Hill Farm and through to Burwash Weald and by the National Trust Rudyard Kipling house, Batmans. This is where T E Lawrence (Lawrence of Arabia) was a famous visitor on his Brough Superior of course.

It was then on to Spring Lane before travelling through Stonegate and on to Sheep Street Lane, round to Etchingham on to Fontridge Lane, Oxey's Green then three miles off road by the British Gypsum overland conveyor which was rather muddy to say the least and back round to the village hall where most arrived by 3pm. Here every one partook of an excellent barbeque which didn't finish until darkness descended. All told a great day out which raised £500 for local charities.

CRAWLERS WORK AT SEVEN MILE LANE

The Pierce brothers held their annual crawler ploughing day at Seven Mile Lane, Borough Green, Kent on Sunday 19 March. It was a good opportunity to clean off the ploughs and have a go in the field of these famous fruit farmers who have been part of the agricultural preservation scene, since 1966.

They have not lost any of their enthusiasm over the years and it was great to see William Pierce's son Andrew in action with their ex East Anglia Caterpillar D4. Peter Denham with the Ransomes Hexatrac 5-furrow plough was working perfectly behind the D4.

Peter Denham had his Allis-Chalmers M going well that he has restored so well which was a type that came out in 1933 and was still being made in 1948 on the back was a Ransomes Multitrac in primer.

Further across was Richard Gilman a top Weald crawler ploughman he had certainly not lost his speed since I last saw him impressively ploughing over 30 years ago now at Chislehurst. He was using the ex Alexander brothers 1949 Caterpillar D2 4U1891 with 40 inch tracks and an ex Denis Tong Ransomes Multitrac 9A 3-furrow plough on the back which was extracted from the bushes at St Mary in the Marsh.

Earlier on we saw the fine American International TD-6 TracTracTor in action with Ransomes 2-furrow behind. The production of this model started in 1939 and finished in 1956 when some 38,449 had been built. The TD-6 started out with 35 bhp but by 1956 it was producing much more power than that as always IHC engineers kept on developing their range.

Near the poly tunnels were the West family and their wonderful J I Case C which they have owned for over 20 years now. It gave the brothers Oliver and Austin a good chance to try out their new John Crowder ploughing techniques with their immaculate RSLD-9 plough. It was good to see Diane and Tara West, Austin's wife at the controls of the venerable C.

CUNDELLS DO WELL

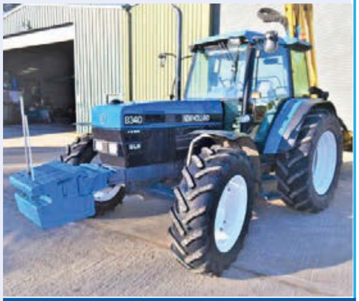
On Saturday 18 March Cundells held an extensive clear-out sale that featured some fine restored tractors at Firwood, Yapham, Pocklington, East Yorkshire. The PA system was not very clear at times, but it all came together in its way. The highlight was the restored Ford 7810 Jubilee with 7,428 hours in grade 5.2 condition, sold for £57,000.

The 2013 New Holland TS107 four-wheel drive with low floatation tyres and 5,446 hours in 11 grade condition sold for a good £27,500 and the 2013 John Deere 5100M with 7,563 hours grade 10 was moved on at £23,000. We then moved to the 2001 Case-IH MX170 Maxim, 6,693 hours Y548HWJ sold for an amazing £41,500 and lastly the 2017 Case-IH 380 EU17 BNK with 2,020 hours which made a remarkable £121,000 grade 11.

Looking very smart is the 2001 Case-IH 170 Maxim that had 6,693 hours on it; sold for a remarkable £41,500

Making £57,000 on the day was the Ford Jubilee 7810 in fully restored condition

Another clean tractor was the 2013 New Holland TS105 with low floatation tyres and 5,446 hours sold for £27,500



The Ford 8340 SLE fully refreshed sold for a record £20,500

BIG CLEAROUT

Cheffins held an amazing 700 + lot sale at Ripon Racecourse, East Yorkshire on Thursday 30 March on behalf of Ripon Farm Services Group. The sale featured some 87 tractors, combines and more which sold very well indeed. As for the highlight, that was the 2022 John Deere 6175R AutoPowr 50kph transmission with front linkage and Autotrac that had covered 1,034 hours which sold for £111,500. The cheapest was two Fordson E27Ns petrol/paraffin in good older restoration condition that sold for £1,800 and £1,500 + VAT.

As for New Holland prices the 2021 T6.155 with front weights 544 hours at £63,000 was the best. Valtra prices have been on the up in recent times and the 2020 Valtra T234 with 4,992 hours was got away at £77,000. The 2018 Valtra S394 reverse-drive with 474 hours sold for £66,000.

It was followed by the 2017 Massey Ferguson 6718S with loader and 4,597 hours for which you would have paid £52,500. All told an excellent sale which had plenty of hard standing around to make it viable.

The only crawler tractor in the sale was this 2008 Caterpillar Challenger MT765B that was in good overall condition and sold for £27,500

Looking to be in great condition was this 2016 JCB 4220 Fastrac that went on to sell for £51,000

One of the oldest JCB Fastracs on offer was this 2135 from 2135 which was in very good condition and sold for £22,500

NEW HOLLAND T7.260 ON TOP

There was a good selection of tractors which went under the hammer at the March Euro Auctions sale at Leeds. As ever though, the condition of the tractors varied considerably, with the prices being achieved reflecting that fact. But with no reserves, everything sells making this an auction well worth visiting.

First up were a selection of combine harvesters where the Massey Ferguson name was prominent. Here a 9380AL from 2014 which was fitted with a 35ft superflow header and was showing 2,280 engine hours and 767 drum hours came out on top at £45,500, while among the tractors which also carried the MF name, a 6840 from 2008 fitted with a MX loader was the most expensive when it sold for £21,000. There were other MFs on offer too, most notably a 6475 from 2005 that came with a Quicke Q65 loader grade 10 and sold for £17,500.

It was the New Holland name that provided the most expensive tractor in the sale. That turned out to be a 2019 NH T7.260 grade 11 sold for £66,000, while a T7.260 Power Command from 2013 went on to sell for £32,000 grade 10.

Coming out on top among the John Deere tractors in the sale was a 6130M from 2016 that was fitted with a MX U309 front loader at £46,000 grade 10, while a couple of 6135Ms had also been put up for sale. The first from 2018 made £43,000 grade 11 while the second was a year older and made £36,000 despite being fitted was a MX U310 front loader grade 10.

The best of a handful of Valtra tractors on offer was a 2016 T174 Active grade 10 which made £37,000, while the only crawler tractor in the sale was a 2008 Caterpillar Challenger MT765B that managed to sell for £27,500 again grade 10.

There was a good selection of JCB Fastracs to tempt the bidders that encompassed a wide range of ages. The 4220 from 2016 coming out on top at £51,000 grade 10. Although no age was given, it was pretty obvious that a 185-65 was the oldest example in the sale which sold for £10,000 grade 9.4. Then came a 2140 for £18,500, while a 2135 from 2001 made £22,500 both grade 9.7.

Other tractors that made their mark were a 2012 Deutz-Fahr Agrotron L730 £25,500 grade 10, while a 2003 Case MXM190 achieved £20,500 again grade 10. Somewhat cheaper was a 2005 McCormick XTX185 that went on to sell for £15,500, while having an older feel was an International 1255XL that looked solid it had received primer on various panels grade 9.3 10,500.

There were some notable Fords on offer too. Here an 8210 that dated from 1990 sold for £13,000, while an 8830 went for £12,000 and a 7740 from 1996 made £10,000. All three appeared to be in grade 9.9 condition and will hopefully make their way onto the rally scene before too long.

Also in great condition was a 2007 Kubota ME5700 that was fitted with a LA1002 loader that sold for £13,000, while a series of unused Kioti RX7620 tractors were also up for sale. The most expensive price paid was £16,000, with others coming in at around the £14,000 mark.

As ever, this Euro Auctions' sale brought together a varied selection of machines, all of which managed to find a new home.

The most expensive tractor in the sale turned out to be this 2019 New Holland T7.260 four-wheel drive that came with front linkage and pto. It sold for £66,000

The best of the John Deere tractors was this 6135M four-wheel drive from 2018 that was in very good condition and went on to sell for £43,000
